PARENTING YOUR CHILD FOR FUTURE

-Discover the right FIT career for your child

-Simplify the complex process of decision making for the most suitable career aligned to his/her interest areas

-Develop a healthy and trusting relationship with your child

A parental role can be integral to their child's career success.

- Whether your child is in his tweens, teens, or twenty's, the issue of career development is an essential and valuable discussion.
- Parents consciously want the best for their children, but because of unconscious patterns, current pressures and concern for their children's well-being they might have trouble discerning what that is.
- We should want our children to reach for the stars and surpass our success. Sometimes we may also unconsciously want them to fulfill our unfulfilled dreams. The dynamics between parents and children can get complicated as parents assert their independence. Unfortunately, however sometimes negative messaging particularly from parents, teachers, relatives, peer groups can get stuck in child's head like a broken recording.

- Unfortunate comments like,
 1. - If you don't improve your grades, you'll never succeed!!
 2. - What's wrong with you?
 3. - Why don't you ever get it right
 4. - Have you ever thought about your future?
 5. - Have you ever compared yourself with ...? can have long-lasting and devastating consequences.
- Parents are in a very tricky position when it comes to offering advice and guidance. How much is just enough? Too Much? Too Little?
- Positive messages and support can make all the difference, but it is hard to know how to direct our children.
- There are multiple ways parents can positively impact their child's growth.
- We may suggest few practical tips for parents who wish /want to help their children succeed in their career journey.
- As children grow, they naturally start to think about their future selves. As they progress in school, they begin to notice that there may be subjects or activities that they gravitate toward more naturally. Wouldn't it be great if they felt optimistic that there were many, many options for them to explore?
